West Week Gets Spur at Joint Meeting

Resolutions Favor Combined Group to Sponsor Event

Western Week, colorful Fall opening event which started to falter last week and then began to stumble into a complete fade-out, was given a transfusion of enthusiastic support last night.

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association, segment of the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce, and which was attended by other division heads of the Chamber as well as Perry Sanders, president of Los Compadres, and Cliff Campbell, director of the same organization, there was the formation, in resolutions passed, of a working organization which would undertake the staging of Western Week.

Agreeing to take the decisions back to their respective organizations for discussion were Theresa Press, president of the Palm Springs Realty Board, and Harry Paisley, president of the Hotel and Apartment House Association.

BOTH SANDERS and Campbell said they would hold a special meeting of the Los Compadres to discuss the proposed plan that that organization appoint a general chairman for Western Week who would in turn work with committees appointed by other organizations in Palm Springs.

Specifically, the plan calls for financial assistance on a city wide scale, and working assistance from members appointed by participating organizations.

Preliminary coordination and to enlist the assistance of other organizations was placed in the hands of Bill Rashall of the Desert Sun. He was also asked to lend all assistance possible in raising sufficient funds to stage the giant parade and for other events.

THE ELK'S CLUB will be asked to put on the yearly children's pet show. Los Compadres, with its knowhow of more than 12 years will hear Sanders and Campbell ask its members to stage the parade; the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Jaceyettes and George Rasmussen, Western gear merchant here, will stage the fashion show, and the hotel association the kangaroo court. All of these events, it was understood, will need the approval of members or directors of the various organizations involved.

Adrian Rosen, who conducted the meeting, was pleased with the results of the meeting and was of the opinion that Western Week would go on as it has in the past.

Persons wishing to contribute to the cost of staging Western Week are asked to send their contributions to The Desert Sun with all checks or money orders made out to Western Week Fund.

"It is necessary that sufficient money be raised as soon as possible if the manifold duties which confront the working committees may be pulled into a working pattern," Rosen said.

It was more than 13 years ago that members of Los Compadres, acting on a suggestion by a staff member of the Desert Sun, initiated Western Week.

L.A. Skyscrapers Called Feasible

LOS ANGELES — There is nothing to prevent Los Angeles from having skyscrapers as tall as those in New York, according to Ernest Maag of the state Division of Architecture.

Maag told delegates attending the national meeting of the American Society of Testing Materials Tuesday that there is no great structural problem in building skyscrapers here, although fire equipment might have to be changed.

Firecracker, Gun Culprits Vanish

Two reports of dangerous practices were reported to police yesterday, with the culprits having disappeared in both cases before officers arrived.

They concerned youths throwing firecrackers at vehicles and persons, and a man standing in the back of a pick-up truck firing with a revolver at a pipeline and flames in a construction area on Ramon Road.

DULLES URGES 'CZAR' TO DIVERT WESTERN SHIPPING FROM SUEZ

DO YOU KNOW WHERE IS SUEZ CANAL AND WHY IT IS CRUCIAL? SURVEY SHOWS 6 OF 10 AMERICANS DON'T

By UNITED PRESS
A poll taken this week by the Wall Street Journal showed that only six out of 10 Americans could even locate the Suez Canal on a map, let alone understand why it has brought a world crisis.

So let's take a look at some fundamental facts about the Suez Canal.

It is 101 miles long. The Panama Canal is 50. The Suez runs at sea level, without locks, from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea. It links Europe with Asia and with the oil fields of the Middle East.

On any given day 40 to 50 ships carrying one-sixth of the entire maritime cargo of the world and 85 per cent of it is going to or from Europe. The Suez tonnage last year was 115 million on 14,666 ships—almost three times that of the Panama.

EUROPE CONSUMES 2,500,000 barrels of oil a day. About 1,200,000 of it passes daily through the pipelines to the Mediterranean, the remainder from North and South America.

Should the Suez flow be stopped, Europe would get only half as much oil products for its automobiles, furnaces, factories.

The alternative for getting Middle East oil would be for tankers to go around the Cape of Good Hope at the southern tip of Africa. That is about 5,000 miles longer to London.

The company charged a tanker carrying 100,000 barrels of oil $12,000 to use the canal. It costs about $3,000 a day to keep a tanker at sea. So in four days on the cape voyage the $12,000 would have been spent and the remainder of the voyage would be tremendously expensive.

GREAT BRITAIN gets its tea from Ceylon, its cotton from India, its wool from Australia, its rubber from Malaya. The voyage from Bombay to London via the Suez is 7,028 miles. By the cape it is 12,548.

The Suez was built by a private French company, completed in 1869. There are now some 800,000 shares of stock outstanding. The British government owns 44 per cent. Private individuals in France hold about 42 per cent. The rest is scattered around the world. The Suez is a very profitable operation. Last year its total revenues were $97,596,000 and its gross profit $45,000,000. Shares before the seizure sold around $300 apiece. Last year they paid a dividend of $30.50—more than 10 per cent.

IN A TREATY signed in Constantinople in 1888, the then major powers of the world agreed that the canal must at all times be open to every nation of the world. Last year it was used by ships of 40 nations.

Britain had military occupation of the canal zone for 72 years. At one time it was a vital military passageway, but the advent of jet planes and the atomic bomb drastically reduced its importance. Last year — partly at American urging — Britain pulled all of its 80,000 troops out of the canal zone.

Nasser's seizure and nationalization of the canal came within less than a year. During the Arab Jewish war, Egypt closed the canal to Israeli ships. Some of those nations whose life blood depends on the canal see nothing to stop Egypt from making a unilateral decision again about who can use the waterway.

1000 Phone Numbers Here To Change

Shift Required By Impending Toll Dial System

Approximately 1000 telephone numbers in the Palm Springs area will be changed effective on or about Oct. 31, according to Doak Davis, Palm Springs District Manager, California Water & Telephone Company.

"These changes are necessary for several reasons," Davis said, "and are required with the additional new equipment being installed in the local office. In the re-inforcing of our central office to provide more lines, the equipment that is being installed is of the latest design and is known as 'terminal-per-station' and is being used to properly equip the Palm Springs exchange for subscriber toll dialing.

"This programing of equipment will provide for Palm Springs subscribers dialing many distant points when subscriber toll dialing becomes effective for this area. "From the subscriber's standpoint the installation of this type of equipment will provide an additional service, also," Davis continued, "because it is so designed that future number changes will be reduced to the minimum. In fact, hereafter, any Palm Springs subscribers will be able to move from one location to another in the city, change their service from one grade to another, and still not be subject to telephone number change. This is particularly true with respect to residential party line users."

By changing these numbers at this time, the manager said, it will be highly effective in providing better service to all customers during the coming season by reducing the hazards of the "busy" signal when dialing.

The announcement also said that all the subscribers affected by this number change are being advised by letter what their new telephone number will be. A second letter will be sent notifying each subscriber of the exact date of the change. The newly assigned number will appear in the telephone directory issued Dec. 1.

County Moves To Supervise Trailer Parks

County Planning Commissioners yesterday ordered an ordinance drawn to bring trailer parks under county supervision, following an informal meeting with other county officials and spokesmen for the trailer park operators.

The group agreed that it was advisable to enact the ordinance regulating the parks, and it would be a means of improving the limited control now exercised by state authorities. Enforcement would be placed in the hands of the County Department of Building and Safety, which would work in cooperation with the State Division of Housing.

HAROLD ROBERTS, representative from the State Division of Housing, told the commission that they would "like very much to have the county adopt its own control measures, as the state only imposes minimum requirements."

Stanley E. Long, executive director of the California Trailer Park Association, and Clarence Derr, director from this district, expressed favor in adopting the ordinance.

Exempted from the fee in preliminary planning would be trailers parked on residential property of persons living in residential areas, but these trailers would not be available for permanent occupancy.

A tentative fee of $2 was mentioned as the fee if the ordinance is enacted by the Board of Supervisors.

MIAMI — A pint-sized Colombian Indian left for New York today to allow medical authorities to determine if he is really 167 years old.

Whether 167, 150, or 120, authorities believe Javier Periera, Monteria, Colombia, is the world's oldest living man.

Periera, four-feet, four inches tall and weighing 75 pounds, spoofed with reporters and photographers here when he ate his first ice cream cone.

He arrived in Miami Tuesday night on the first leg of his long journey to the Cornell Medical Center where experts will try to determine Periera's secret of longevity.

THE "OLD MAN" already has undergone exhaustive medical examinations in South America which indicated he is at least 150 and possibly 167.

Periera was met here by Douglas Storer, member of a syndicate which distributes a cartoon on oddities. "Believe It or Not," Storer learned of Periera during a visit to Colombia.

Storer said a 68-year-old woman in his native village remembers that when she was a child, Periera himself relates events of the early 1900's in a manner which indicates he was a young adult at that time.

PERIERA NIBBLED on an ice cream cone and chewed gum while reporters fired questions at his interpreter, Flavio Czorrea, Medellin, Colombia.

Whatever Periera's age, he did not act at the Miami airport. He shook his fists and made funny faces at the photographers and TV cameramen.

Periera who speaks a Spanish-Indian dialect, told reporters through his interpreter, that he had no particular secret for his longevity. He said he drinks when he can get it, and loves to smoke. He proudly said he had outlived five wives.

Although toothless, the Indian is in pretty good physical condition. His pulse beat is 76, his heart beat normal and his blood pressure runs about 110.

Would Have Power to Isolate Canal

U.S. Secretary Reveals Plan to 18-Nation Parley

LONDON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles asked the second London Suez conference today to appoint a Western shipping "czar" with powers to divert traffic from the Suez Canal if this proves "necessary."

Dulles put the new Suez users union proposal before the 18-nation conference after British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd warned there would be "no compromise" on international control of the waterway.

BUT LLOYD, elected chairman of the conference, said "we want to proceed by peaceful means." "We do not want to settle the dispute by force," Lloyd said. "There has never been any doubt in the minds of Her Majesty's government to go before the U.N. Security Council at some stage."

Prime Minister Anthony Eden told Commons during the Suez debate last week that he would seek Security Council action if Egypt blocked pilots of the association from moving ship convoys through the canal.

DULLES WAS given the job of "selling" the association to the participating nations, divided among themselves and taunted by Egypt that the meeting was "absurd" and "doomed to failure."

Diplomats reported the Western Big Three differing on strategy and three of the Dulles plan nations, Iran, Sweden and Spain, immediately called for new negotiations with Egypt.

Dulles introduced a tentative blueprint for the Users Association at the morning session. It called for:

1. A "small operating staff."
2. An expert "administrative agent" to head it.
3. A "small governing board" selected from the Dulles plan nations to set policy and report back to the 18 powers.

DULLES CAUTIOUSLY phrased a hope that the Users Association may find "a measure of cooperation with the Egyptian Canal Authority... even though Egypt may not at the present time agree upon a permanent arrangement."

Dulles said the administrative agent would be the key official in the projected association, an expert, he said, "knowledgeable in shipping matters who could act as desired on behalf of the ships of the members."

HE SUGGESTED the agent be given these responsibilities:

1. To "retain and make available experienced pilots" to steer association ships through the Suez Canal.
2. To "assist the ships of members in arranging their orderly communication in the pattern of traffic through the canal."
3. "Help coordinate routes through or around the canal, if the latter proves necessary."
4. "He could be authorized to act as the agent of the ship-owners and collect and pay out such sums of money as are appropriate in connection with the maintenance of, and passage through, the canal and the performance of his other duties."

DULLES SKIPPED the earlier suggestion that had caused considerable concern among some of the Dulles plan nations and brought charges of warlike provocations from Egypt—that the association try to push "test convoys" through the waterway.

He also avoided outright reference to the collection of canal tolls by the association rather than the Egyptians. Eden, disclosing the plan before Commons a week ago, specifically included this function.

Egypt softened its line Tuesday and said ships of the proposed association could use the canal, if they took on Egyptian pilots.

Today it made fun of the London gathering while Moslem religious leaders exhorted Arabs to sacrifice all for the motherland.

Taxable Sales in Village Show $500,000 Gain in 2nd Quarter

Taxable sales in Palm Springs continued to show a definite upswing during the last quarter, April through June, with a $500,000 increase over the same period a year ago reported by retail outlets.

"Total taxable sales reported in this period in 1956 were $6,043,794, compared to $5,518,241 in 1955, according to Shelby V. Langford, city finance director."

Leading the various classifications were eating and drinking places, with 82 outlets reporting sales of $1,172,161.

Other leaders were: Apparel group, 54 outlets, $1,087,894; building material group, 68 outlets, $1,022,558; drug stores, eight outlets, $555,202; general merchandise group, 13 outlets, $553,474; motor vehicles, plane and trailer dealers, including supplies and parts, 16 outlets, $487,075.

Specialty stores group, 78 outlets, $375,503; grocery and other food stores, $217,173; home furnishings dealers, 41 outlets, $178,367; garages and service stations, 23 outlets, $114,969; florists and garden supply stores, 17 outlets, $71,296; candy and confectionery stores, 10 outlets, $30,217.

Sheet metal, welding machine and cabinet shops, 13 outlets, $23,129; packaged liquor stores, five outlets, $15,567; fuel and ice dealers, six outlets, $14,963; household appliance dealers, five outlets, $12,945; tobacco dealers, three outlets, $12,757; commercial equipment and fixtures, six outlets, $5,593; janitorial supplies and disinfectant dealers, six outlets, $3,849; personal service establishments, 12 outlets, $747; all miscellaneous outlets, 28, $44,272.

Infant, Struck Here by Car in Driveway, Dies

An 18-month-old boy, Melvin Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Bryant, died at Desert Hospital last night two hours after he had been struck by a car while sitting in a driveway.

The car, driven by Arthur Pellum, Jr., 19, 468 East Arenas Road had been parked in the driveway with the motor running and lights on, prior to leaving. Pellum told investigating officers that he did not notice the lad crawl in front of his car.

It is believed that the wheels of the vehicle did not strike the body of the boy, with fatal injuries being caused by the undercarriage of the car.

Deputy coroner Robert Drake has not determined as yet whether or not an autopsy will be held. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Wilefs and Son Mortuary, and are incomplete at this time.

Antique Silver Reported Stolen

Theft of 12 pieces of sterling silver, some of which was more than 100 years of age, was reported to police Tuesday by Mrs. D. E. Beerman, 232 Camino del Sur.

Other items taken included a dress, cocktail shaker and a large uncut amethyst stone.

Entry was made between June 15 and Sept. 4, with the theft not noticed until yesterday.

Scientists Urge Laws to Govern 'Universal' Man

ROME — A conference of world scientists called today for a new set of laws to govern the conduct of man if and when he conquers the universe.

Problems of space etiquette highlighted the second day of the seventh International Astronautical Congress meeting here.

The main themes were discussed by chief U.S. Delegate Andrew G. Haley, president of the American Rocket Society, and A. A. Cocca of Argentina.

Haley argued that man may eventually be forced to conquer outer space because the physical resources of the earth are limited. Cocca discussed jurisdictional problems involving the right of possession of territory occupied by space explorers.

Radium Thieves Warned of Peril

LOS ANGELES — Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer has joined police in an appeal for the return of three cylinders of radium. The cylinders were stolen from a garage last Thursday.

"There is considerable danger to anyone who exposes himself by removing the cylinders from the boxes in which they were stored because the powerful radiation can cause burns and progressive damage to body tissues," Uhl said.

The radium was used by L. R. Berryman to calibrate geiger counters.

Supervisors Will Hear Whitewater Zoning Dispute

A hearing before the County Planning commission has been set for 4:30 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers in Riverside to hear pro and con arguments in the matter of setting a W-2 zone in the Whitewater-Thousand Palms area along U.S. highway 99.

The watershed zoning will permit the building of single and multiple family residences, and allow other uses subject to approval. The main reason for the action, according to Tyler Sues, county planning director, is the control of billboards along highway 60-70-99 from the "Y" at Highway 111 to Thousand Palms.

All the land in question is in unincorporated territory, and some of it is already zoned W-2 under a interim zoning ordinance.

Bulganin Agrees To Summit Talk On Suez Crisis

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said in an interview released today he is willing to join a summit conference of the Big Four plus India and Egypt to settle the Suez dispute.

Bulganin made the statement in answer to questions submitted by J. Kingsbury Smith of International News Service. The Soviet news agency Tass released the text.

Easing of County Subdivision Rules Is Due Tuesday

Formal action will follow yesterday's executive meeting of the Riverside County Planning Commission on the proposed revision of tract improvement requirements to set up a more flexible program within the county.

Action to revamp the present subdivision regulations has been set for the next regular meeting of the commission at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, in the supervisors' chambers at the county court house. Proposed modifications of the present conditions imposed upon subdivisions will be presented at that time by Tyler Sues, planning director.

The need for the change is due to the recognition of peculiar problems of subdividers in different areas, especially in the sparsely settled desert, it was stated.

WARREN J. PEASE, president of Riverside Title Company, told the commission that though the county is at the threshold of even greater growth, "we are losing prospective developers of our lands by having discouraging laws and regulations hampering our local developers. I urge you to have only minimum requirements essential to proper safeguarding of the future development of Riverside county."

Commissioner L. C. Lewis is Cathedral City warned the commission that it cannot be lulled into a false belief "that we can set back and relax and get our proper share of Southern California's industrial and residential growth. Riverside county must offer an attractive situation for prospective subdividers and home builders."

AT ISSUE at the meeting was the present requirements of improved streets, complete with pavement, curbs and gutters, in the desert area of the county. Terry Ray spoke forcibly about the need for modification of the subdivision controls, and Ted Smith of Rancho Mirage and Palm Desert supported Ray by adding that the "desert areas bring in good tax revenue from very low assessed valuation territory. The assessed valuation of our subdivisions are high enough that we pay well for the privilege of omitting some street improvements."

Others speaking to the commission on the matter were J. O. Waldron of Desert Hot Springs and George Nightingale of Cathedral City.

August Sales Tax Income Up $2018 in Village

Sales tax receipts collected by the City of Palm Springs during the month of August continued to show an increase, $19,784 compared to $17,766 in the same month last year, Shelby Langford, director of finance, reported.

Total collected for the first two months of this fiscal year is $37,778, an increase of more than $4,000 over the same period in 1955. The report is on a cash basis and reflects taxable sales which occurred in previous months and quarters, Langford said.

Total collected by the city since the sales tax was put into effect is $1,421,808.

Allen Swift is a Man and a Mouse, Also Tea Kettle, Coffee Pot, Yogurt

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Allen Swift is both a man and a mouse. In fact, two kinds of mouse. He is also a tea kettle, a coffee pot, a gurgling sink, Howdy Doody, Dinky Duck, several species of bird and the voice of yogurt.

You probably hear Swift's voice echoing through the confines of your living room more frequently than any other TV personality, but the chances are you never recognize it. The reason—Swift's voice assumes as many shapes as salami.

"I do voices, all kinds of voices, any kind of voices," said Swift today. "I've played in more than 1,000 network radio shows—mugs, old codgers, kids, everything. I've done more than 50 different characters on 'Howdy Doody,' including Howdy Doody himself."

"I DO MOVIE" cartoons—Herman the Mouse, Mighty Mouse. Also just about all the voices for UPA cartoons in the East.

"But my principal activity right now is TV film commercials. As far as I know, there isn't anybody who can do as many kinds of voices as I do."

Within the past few weeks, Swift has provided the voices for more than a score of the commercials you'll see on your home screen this season. Among others—two brands of cigarettes, a hair tonic, a watch, a soft drink, a beer, an instant coffee, a razor blade, a spaghetti, a macaroni, a candy bar and a five-day deodorant pad.

"I USUALLY DO the announcing as well as the characters," said Swift. "For some commercials like pills, you have to give 'em a real dignified voice like Norman Brokenshire—sort of like an old uncle telling you how to beat your troubles."

"You have to be serious about most drug products and for some reason, yogurt. The yogurt people feel too many jokes have been made about their product."

"But a lot of ad agencies are going for real mad voices now. They're making humorous commercials—I've got a couple of pretty funny ones coming out for a candy bar and a hair cream."

SWIFT IS A SPECIALIST at providing a voice for objects. He has done such things as houses, kitchen sinks and three-way lamps.

"What I do is try to identify each object with some kind of person," said Swift. "You take a perkling coffee pot—it's got a big, deep, hearty kind of personality, so you give it that kind of voice. "A tea kettle is different. A tea pot is quite delicate, very British with a hiss in its articulation."

"NOW, A THREE-WAY lamp is a little more difficult. You have to do it with voice level—low and dull for a low light, medium rasp for a medium light and then light and happy and high pitched for that bright light."

The 32-year-old Swift also tackles one other job occasionally for ad agencies—imitating TV stars for prospective sponsors.

"They'll make up a sample portion of a program on a record with me imitating somebody like Arthur Godfrey. I can imitate just about any one's voice with an hour's practice. The sponsor never knows and it works out just fine."

Ike Takes to TV With Campaign At 9:30 Tonight

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will carry his drive for reelection to the nation tonight in the first televised speech of his campaign.

The President planned to talk about peace—and what his administration has done to achieve it.

HE ALSO WAS expected to strike back at Democratic charges that his administration is losing the cold war to the Communists.

He may well say something about the Suez crisis. He undoubtedly will have received last minute reports from the new London Committee is paying the radio-TV bill. It is estimated at about $80,000.

Suez conference before speaking. The President's 30-minute address—first of a series of major national TV and radio talks—will be carried at 9:30 p.m. EDT by the Columbia Broadcasting System. He will speak from Broadcast House, here.

THE REPUBLICAN National The President formally opened his campaign last week with a carnival-like picnic at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm for GOP leaders. But the picnic was more of a family party than a public affair. The President's speech to night is his first major national address since he accepted the GOP presidential nomination in San Francisco last month.

Flaming Cat Safe But Barn is Not

BROMYARD, England — Peter Snatchford, 14, accidentally dropped a lighted match Tuesday night. It landed upon his pet cat. The cat, its fur burning, streaked into a barn filled with hay. It charged out again, singed, but no longer flaming. The barn burned for nine hours.

Air Force Again Grounds All B52 Jet Bombers

WASHINGTON — The Air Force today grounded all its B52 heavy jet bombers for the second time this year.

The grounding was ordered as a result of the accident near Castle Air Force Base, Calif., Monday in which five members of a seven-man crew were killed.

The Air Force said the grounding is a "precautionary measure." In an emergency the B52's would be ready to fly, the Air Force added.

The Air Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, ordered the grounding "pending results of the investigation into the B52 accident on Monday," the Air Force said.

The long range B52's are designed to provide immediate atomic retaliation in the event of an attack on this country.

The B52 was grounded last Feb. 15 after an accident to one of the bombers which also was operating out of Castle Air Base. The cause of that accident was traced to a faulty alternator-generator.

'Rock 'n Roll' Riot Hospitalizes 15 in East Resort

NEWPORT, R.I. — A "rock 'n' roll" riot hospitalized 15 sailors and Marines Tuesday night when 100 fist fights suddenly broke out at a dance at a newly renovated enlisted men's club.

Beer bottles, beer cans and beer pitchers were thrown through the windows of the club which was recently remodeled at a cost of more than $40,000.

POLICE AND Navy and Marine shore patrols finally quelled the fighting.

Some 1,500 sailors and Marines, and their wives and women companions were involved in the melee which erupted when the couples were dancing to the music of "Fat's" Domino's orchestra.

Sailors said the wild flurry of flying fists and beer containers apparently started over a remark an enlisted man made to a girl. The separate fights broke out all over the huge hall and then moved out into the street.

"IT DIDN'T amount to anything," said aides of Rear Adm. Ralph Earle Jr., commander of Newport Naval Base. Earle could not be reached and base officers refused further discussion.

390 Enroll in First Community Church Sunday School Double Session

Last Sunday approximately 390 were enrolled in the Sunday School of the Community Church, taking advantage of the first double sessions.

At 9:30 there are classes for all age groups including the Adult Class, with the following superintendents of the various departments: Mrs. Charles McDonald, Nursery; Mrs. Al Normandin, beginners; Mrs. Stephen Smith, primary; Mrs. Frank Little, juniors; Mrs. Norman Ostberg, junior high; Jim McManus, senior high school; Frank Carey, adult class.

Each of the classes have up to date material which is graded for each child and teachers are in charge of each group.

There is a second session of Sunday school which begins at 11 and is held during the morning worship service. Classes from the nursery department up and including the junior age group are held at this time. The superintendents in charge of these departments are: Mrs. Donald Cole, nursery;

Mrs. Ed Mullins, beginners; Mrs. Margot Morrison, primary, and Ms. Valley Castle, juniors.

A young adult class is being organized to meet at this same time with Jim McManus as the teacher. A well equipped cradle roll room is provided for children under two years of age during both sessions.

A Sunday school bus will be in operation beginning this coming Sunday, Sept. 23, and will follow the following route: 9, Orchard Tractor Park; 9:05, Sunrise and Mesquite; 9:10, Santa Cruz and Sunny Dunes; 9:13, Sunny Dunes and El Placer; 9:20, McCallum Way and Cerritos; 9:20, Ramon Tractor Park; 9:23, Ramon Road at El Segundo; 9:25, Community Church. The bus will leave the church at 10:35 to return.

New Junk Yard Law Adopted

A new ordinance requiring fencing of all existing junk and auto wrecking yards by July 1, 1956 and making it mandatory for all junk yards or automobile wrecking yards to have a permit to operate, regardless of when such junk or wrecking yard was established, was adopted by the board of supervisors this week.

The ordinance also regulates the use of signs on junk yard property, prohibits piling of junk in excess of height of enclosing wall, and requires that all inflammable liquid must be drained and removed from any unregistered motor vehicle or other secondhand article on the premises. The new law will become effective Oct. 17.

Copper Company of 80 Years Goes Modern—Leads in Uranium Mining

By MICKY TOPPINO
United Press Staff Correspondent
GRANTS, N.M. (AP)—Deep in the heart of New Mexico's desert badlands, the Anaconda Co. has established an oasis of economic success.

The company, which started 80 years ago in the copper mining business today operates the largest uranium processing mill in the United States.

Tons of hard yellow rock pour into the top-secret installation each day. Barrels of "yellow cake," a finely-ground sand yellow than gold, and more precious than platinum, are turned out.

From a small operation set up four years ago when uranium was first discovered on this barren, desolate desert, broken only by occasional carrot crops and jagged chunks of lava rock, Anaconda has developed one of the most modern plants in the nation.

THE FIRM EMPLOYS some 500 persons, a large share of the population still crammed into the uranium boom town of Grants not far from the Anaconda installation. But the operation represents the height of mechanical achievement.

Clanking instruments whirr and roar in three separate plants here. Men, however, are hard to find.

"Sixty years ago we would have had several thousand coolies with wheelbarrows," said the assistant mill superintendent, William Stern. "Today we don't need men except to roam the catwalks and make sure the machinery's in order."

FROM THE TIME the uranium ore is poured from truck and train into the first of the crushing machines until it comes out in the fine grain so valuable to the United States defense effort, the uranium is untouched by human hands.

Most of the 500 company employees are office workers, keeping books, testing ores, performing the many varied functions of big business.

"We had it rough in the beginning," Stern said. "It was a new field, and we made a lot of mistakes. It was strictly trial and error."

BUT FOUR MONTHS ago, Anaconda doubled its operation. It had been serving as the buying agent for the Atomic Energy Commission. Soon its development was so great the company announced it would stop working directly for the AEC and devote its efforts to its own production.

In addition to its plant and comfortable, air-conditioned offices the company has also built about 100 homes on the premises, called the Anaconda "townsite."

Some of these are apartments for house single girls attracted by good wages and eligible bachelors. Their quarters are more luxurious than college dormitories. Other employees are men with their families.

Auto Overturns Near Araby Point

Harold Owen of Hemet suffered a fractured rib and contusions when his car overturned near Araby Point at 7:10 p.m., Monday. His condition today at Desert Hospital is reported as good.

"IT'S AN IDEAL PLACE for children of young ages," Stern said. "No traffic, no bad types, none of the problems of city life." There are parties and recreation centers, clubs and informal meetings. Television aerials surge up out of the sage brush. New cars are as common as jackrabbits.

Inter-State Road Meeting Planned

SAN DIEGO (AP)—An interstate conference will be held next month in an attempt to promote a new highway from Texas to San Diego. Otto Hirt, president of the San Diego Highway Development Assn., said that Arizona has made some shortcuts in its highway system that would make it possible to extend U.S. Highway 90 to San Diego. The highway presently begins at Jacksonville, Fla., and ends at Van Horn, Tex.

Under plans to be studied at the conference the new highway would be routed through Arizona on some of the recently-built shortcuts and then come to San Diego over existing state Highway 94.

Newspaper Publisher Proposes Plan For Government to Reform Spelling

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A newspaper publisher who used to be kept in after school because he spelled phonetically has published a plan for a government-sponsored grammar commission that would make reformed spelling mandatory.

Homer W. Wood, publisher of the Porterville Evening Recorder, believes that children are unnecessarily confused by the complex and illogical variations of spelling and pronunciation that have grown into the English language.

It's time, said Wood, for the federal government to take steps to streamline English for the benefit of not only children, but all the harried teachers, business men, secretaries, publishers and printers who have to wrestle with archaic spelling.

HERE'S HOW WOOD proposed to accomplish his revolutionary proposal:

1. Congress would establish a National Grammar Commission consisting of a chairman and at least five persons appointed by the president with wide powers to revise spelling and pronunciation of existing words and to establish spelling and pronunciation of new words.

2. The commission would establish, write and edit a United States Official Dictionary containing all words in common usage arranged according to revised spellings. Unnecessary, unused words would be discarded and new words coined when found advisable.

3. THE COMMISSION would order the National Printing Office to print a limited number of new dictionaries for government use only.

4. Publication of dictionaries for general use would be left to private firms which would be forbidden to use any spellings or pronunciations other than those approved by the commission and published in the U.S. Official Dictionary.

Wood hopes his plan will meet with wider support than previous attempts to reform English spelling.

HE RECALLED THAT President Theodore Roosevelt asked the National Printing Office to use reformed spelling in 1905, but nothing much came of the request. The Chicago Tribune used reformed spelling for many years but gave it up except for words such as "tho," "thru," "thero" and a few other simplifications.

Palm Desert

By GRETCHEN CHEESEMAN

Miss Edith Eddy Ward and her mother, Mrs. Bunny Ward, arrived home a few days ago from the northwest. They visited in Salem, Oregon, with Mr. and Mrs. Glen McCormack and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fitts; both families spend a great part of the winter in the desert. Miss Ward spent some time cruising on Puget Sound and with the McCormacks at their summer home at Devil's Lake, Oregon.

The Sun Lodge Colony is beginning to take on fall activity. Dr. and Mrs. Olin Garrison spent the first two weeks of September in their Sun Lodge, the Henry Cheesemans are home, the Estops have been in and out all summer.

as have the L. G. Bairds. The Harrison Fishers open their Sun Lodge, Oct. 1, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fithian will be in the desert on or about Oct. 31.

The Ladies Golf Club of Shadow Mountain Club will have its first luncheon of the season on Oct. 1. Mrs. Dorothy Pierson and Miss Eloise Veneman are hostesses in charge of decorations.

The new resident manager of the Palm Desert Corporation, Leonard Lockhart has leased a home on Chicory St. and Mrs. Lockhart and their three daughters have arrived to take possession of their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Blades and their two young sons have returned to their Joshua Tree Street home, after a month spent mostly in Colorado. The nights proved a bit chilly, so they spent the last week in Flagstaff, Arizona, with Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Ketchersid and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Oshier have returned from their European trip, which proved an unhappy one. Mr. Oshier was down here for a day and related how Mrs. Oshier had been struck by a motorcycle in Pisa, Italy, and it resulted in a broken hip, leg and ankle. He flew her directly home and she will be hospitalized in Los Angeles for several months.

Jet Plans Used Successfully in Cloud Seeding

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakota Air National Guard has found a new use for jet planes. One was used to seed clouds with dry ice to produce rain. Gov. Joe Foss said it really worked and "it's the most amazing operation I've ever seen."

A special mechanism was installed on the plane containing dry ice. As the air passed through the mechanism, the dry ice super-cooled the air and caused the moisture to condense.

Air Guard Commander D. L. Corning said rain fell, after every flight.

The experiment was carried out during a dry spell when crops were burning up.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walling are at home again after a two-month stay in Palo Alto and a week or so in Coronado.

A card from the Carl Hendersons, who are visiting on Mackinac Island, which states they will be opening their Joshua Tree Street home the last of this month.

Larry and Edith Cotner spent most of the summer in their Thomas Mt. home. They motored to Carmel, Monterey and Lake Shasta Shore Resort—quite by accident they met Mr. and Mrs. Don Hughes there, and they had a wonderful week together.

Mr. and Mrs. Major Slater entertained a large group of friends with a duck dinner last Saturday night. Among those to enjoy the dinner were the Bows Hamiltons, J. Taylors, R. Reynolds, R. Bergans, J. Waltons, D. Pierrose, P. W. McKees, F. Hammonds, Z. Meadows, R. Hills, R. D. Sweeneys, W. Jones, J. B. Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Powell and young son.

Mrs. Beth Grant has opened her desert home and will spend the entire winter here. Her houseguests of the last week were Mr. and Mrs. Mario Chamlee. Mr. Chamlee was one of the New York Metropolitan's leading tenors for many years.

The Shadow Mountain Club is continuing a summer schedule throughout September. The Indian room has been transformed into a cocktail lounge until such time as the new Patio Bar is completed which should be by the end of October. The Shadow Room proves a cool spot for dining and casual dress prevails.

Saturday night's members and guests were the A. W. Halls, Edith Eddy Ward and her mother, Bunny Ward, the Edgar Schills, Clark Bramwell and two daughters, the Ira Johnsons, Raymond Piersons and son, Raymond, Jr., the Pat Ritchies and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Torre, Kenneth Frisvold, Earl Kudells, George Moore, John MacConantys, L. C. Lewis, Stewart Trumbles, Cliff Henderson and guest, the Rudd Hackborns, Mrs. Joe Moon and sons, John and Joe, Ellen Walling West, Bobbie Reichert and Charlotte Stewart.

CVSLA Building Ceremony Held

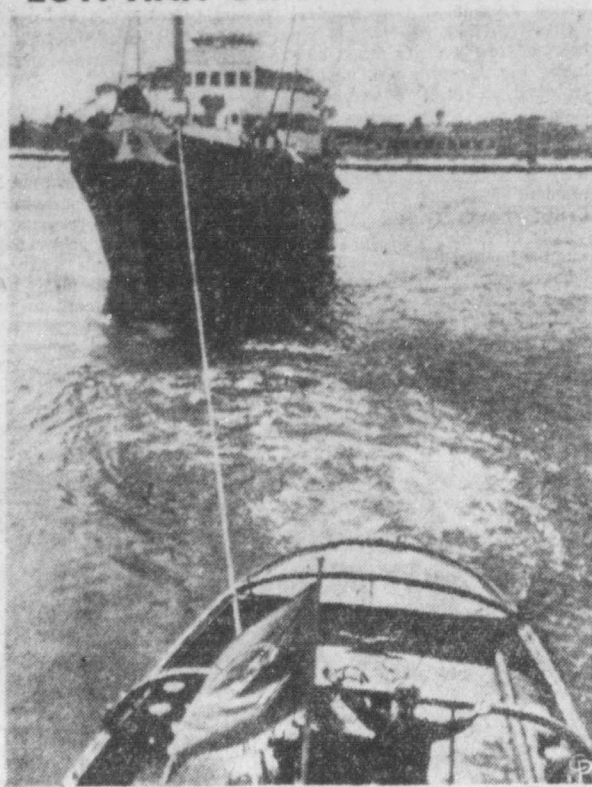

Stockholders, directors, officials and employees of the Coachella Valley Savings and Loan attend the formal dedication of their new building Monday evening.

Kenneth Kirk, chairman of the board, outlined the growth of the organization and a plaque was installed. The formal public opening of the new building is set for Saturday, Oct. 13.

Preceding Monday night's dedication, directors, officials and employees had dinner at Del Tahquitz.

Western Sets New Family Plan

Air travel at economy family fares on Western Air Lines has been redesigned to include Mondays, Arthur F. Kelly, vice president-sales, announced today.

Western's revised plan, under which one member of a family travels at full fare and all others at half fare, will become effective at mid-day on Monday, Oct. 15, at all 47 cities of the airline's 6,350 mile system in 12 western states and Canada.

New hours for the plan are from Monday at 12:01 p.m. until Thursday at 12:01 p.m., Kelly said. The reorganization will offer economy rates on four days each week instead of the Tuesday-Wednesday-Thursday plan now common in the airline industry.

UNITED PRESS REPORT

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

REPORTER'S SPELLING

WASHINGTON (UP) — Some newspaper reporters are notorious misspellers and one of the words they misspell most often is "misspell."

I am quoting W. Maclean Johnson, who is out with a pamphlet called "New Goals in Spelling." I did a little piece on the booklet and maybe it prompted publisher Johnson to page newspaper editors to see how smart reporters are.

A survey was what it was, actually, and sometimes surveys are suspect.

Anyway, the end result was that editors of big papers and wire services are caustic about spelling errors.

"To a man," Johnson said in his final analysis, "editors are agreed that younger newspaper men are poorer spellers than older newspaper men—in spite of perhaps more education."

That is some comfort to us old hands.

Spelling Important

The editors, mostly, said they considered spelling to be very important in a newsman. Almost vital. And that is leaving out what our old timers used to say: "What is a copydesk for?"

Two-thirds of the editors said that poor spelling would hold back a newspaperman who otherwise was bright-eyed and able.

It is hard to believe, but the editors listed these words as those most often misspelled by writers and reporters:

Marshal, accommodate, consensus, separate, embarrass, occurred, principle and principal, dependent, hemorrhage, weird, parallel, veterinarian, commitment, affidavit, and misspell.

Note from UP copy desk: Nick is so right. In writing the above paragraph, he spelled it "consensus."

Rebuttal from Nichols: Like I said, what is a copydesk for?

Comment of Editors

A lot of the editors made special comments, such as:

"We don't tolerate poor spelling for long."

"Misspelling by a reporter marks him as a man careless of or indifference to words—and words are his business."

"The average high school and college graduate today is a very poor speller, apparently reflecting the trend away from the three R's, which should have included 'S' for spelling, which should be carried into the upper level in education."

"My experience is that bad spellers fail in other phases of accuracy. It involves some defect of optical observation, at least."

One editor remarked:

"This is a survey we have wanted to answer for a long time. We have a Harvard man on our staff, for instance, who wrote about a 'bazaar series of events.' We have a Yale man who wound up with three 'Z's' in the word."

WARNING ON SMOG
(Tustin News)

With the influx of a few whiffs of smog across Los Angeles County, over Orange County's booming west side and on into Santa Ana, we all have received a warning shot across our bows.

We might as well face it, friends, we have a growing smog problem which at the moment seems like a puff on a boundless, blue horizon. Yet the puff gets larger as more and more thousands of county residents and visitors drive through the area. According to the experts, their cars are miniature refinery cracking plants.

We know by admission of publicists connected with the oil and gas industry how many hundreds of tons of unsaturated hydrocarbons and other air pollutants are turned into the atmosphere per day in the Los Angeles Smog Basin. It's quite an amount. They admit it but hasten to clean their own skirts of the blame by pinning it on the motorist.

However, this is not the final answer. Our automobile gasoline, drawn largely from California crude oil which has a rather high sulphur content, is processed for us. It is not the fault of your filling station owner that you buy this product nor of the auto dealer. They, like you and me, are somewhat helpless.

We feel the problem is more basic; that it harks right back to our automotive industry manufacturers and to our oil and gasoline producers. As we predicted while still editing that elegant family journal of our former publisher, Ben Reddick, the petroleum and the auto industries should provide us, their consumers, the answer to smog.

There is no use blaming smog on the now notorious temperature "inversion" which is the atmospheric scapegoat of highly-paid professors. Basically, the inversion acts as a trap through which heavy, unsaturated air pollutants cannot escape. So they form that rich, brown smog blanket which blights the Los Angeles area.

When you have reached the conclusion that an aerial sewer is forming in a blanket above you, there is another step necessary—to decide exactly what gives the undesired blanket its texture. As stated we feel there's little doubt that the wrap and woof of the blanket is formed to great extent by petroleum products.

And you'll remember a few paragraphs back, we do not blame this on our petroleum distributors whose service to yours and my car has made this nation's car-courtesy an international by-word.

No, neither our service stations nor our auto dealers are responsible. It is their suppliers over whom they have slight control.

In fairness to those suppliers we may say honestly that we have been informed the two huge industries are spending a few millions of dollars each year to research this choking problem. Yet it remains.

Thus far we see no hope other than public opinion, always the heavy side of the balance in the scales of justice. It is the taxpayers whose homes are threatened with depreciation if smog surrounds them. We know areas in Los Angeles where residential districts, blighted by smog, become drugs on the realty market.

That's why we don't like to even sniff smog in this wonderful, rapidly-growing Tustin and Greater Tustin area. Most of us moved here to get away from smog and big city congestion, our best reason to see that Orange County Air Pollution District engineers do their utmost to control or prevent smog piling up in our beautiful skies. We can also trust the industries involved will provide the right answers in the near future.

Getting out a paper sometimes is fun but never a picnic," says editor Maude Howard in the Dawsonville (Ga.) Advertiser. "If we print jokes, we're silly; if we don't we're too serious. If we clip, we're lazy; if we don't we're too fond of our own stuff. If we print contributions, we're full of junk; if we don't we don't appreciate true genius. Now, like as not, someone will say we swiped this piece from some other paper. Well, we did.

THIS SIDE

By Phat

You gain so much knowledge from scanning the news, such as Pete's proposal to cut out the phews.

The old order sure changeth. Use to be that you knew for sure when fall was here. Your nose knew. People were planting lawns against the coming of the new season.

Always liked to compare it with the midwest and the east where the scent of burning leaves and the turning of color from green to russet, yellow, etc, marked fall.

Here it was more pungent and the color change was from yellow and brown to green.

BUT PETE, (R. W. Peterson, city manager to you) told city council the other day that they should ban steer fertilizer as a stimulant to green grass. Intimated that not only does it smell to high heaven but it draws flies, too. Well, it's a good idea but something is going to be gone from the redolent past. No more SM in the AM.

COUNCIL once before trifled with nature. That was when it ordered female cottonwood trees to leave the city. Too messy.

Soaking of fooling with nature calls to mind a disturbing news item gleaned the other day. According to this dispatch, man will soon be in full charge of making the weather just as he wants it. As who wants it?

Think of the arguments. Just like in the spring and fall when some people are too chilly for the cooler and others too hot for the furnace. You've heard 'em in your office.

So they make it clear and some people want rain. They bring the rain and the clear people yell.

Think of the letters to the editor.

SMOG, LIKE TRUCKS, seems to be the main topic of conversation in the Los Angeles area. After a summer of travel on the free-for-all, garden me, freeway, and other streets, I think they made a mistake when they eliminated the trolleys as a means of transportation. Ever trail a fume dispensing bus?

Those rattle-de-bang street cars made a noise but they didn't smell or smoke.

All right, so I like things that run on tracks. Trolleys, trains, college athletes and Swaps.

DON'T WANT to seem disagreeable but two items in The Sun last week aroused doubt in my mind.

A—Bob Howard's proposal that water from the city's 1.137 (as of that day) swimming pools be placed in event of a bombing attack which cut off the city's water supply. Seems to me that without some chemical help it wouldn't be good for much besides watering the lawn. And who'd want to do that in case of a Russian A-Bomb?

B—Ed Bacon's idea, via Bill Rashall, that trash receptacles be placed at frequent intervals along highways. If people are smart enough to toss things out of cars, are they going to stop to treat to the roadside to dispose of the refuse?

Three more days until autumn.

EARL WILSON:

Josh Logan Tells About Gena

NEW YORK—Two girl scouts sat talking in Sardi's. I was one of them.

"You like girls and I like girls," exclaimed that dynamic director, Joshua Lockwood Logan 3d, "so . . . let's talk about girls."

"Or better yet . . . just girl Gena Rowlands!" he specified.

"This honey-haired, long-limbed blonde beauty's going to be a big star," continued Josh the Genius about the emotee from Cambria, Wis., who plays opposite Edward G. Robinson in "Middle of the Night, which he produced. "She reminds me a little of Marilyn . . ."

"Ah, yes, Marilyn," I drooled. "When you directed her in 'Bus Stop,' did she have that nervous stomach or didn't you notice her stomach?"

"You like to talk about her, too, don't you?" His mustached lip turned up in an understanding smile. "In England they're rapping her. Of course, they are . . . she's taken over England. The girl is loaded . . ."

"She sure is that," I agreed.

"WITH FEARS," hastened on the boy from Texarkana who now belongs to the world. "She's got this terrific censor thing inside that says 'That's not good enough.' If she can control her emotions and health she can become one of the greatest stars we've ever had."

"My ambition was to make Marilyn," he groped for the perfect word—"what she could be. Don Murray kept getting better and I said, 'Oh God, if he steals this picture' There, as with Kim Novak . . ."

"Ah, yes, Kim," I sighed. "Do go on."

"Kim thinks I didn't want her in 'Picnic! Kim wouldn't have been in it if I didn't want her in it. "It's true that I was doubtful. But she was ambitious, she worked very hard. I don't think she has that wide . . ."

"SIR" I bristled.

" . . . RANGE THAT Marilyn has. But she'll be great. Now there's Audrey Hepburn. One of the most civilized girls I've ever met. Some girls get so besieged they clam up, not Audrey. Grace Kelly's also a girl . . ."

"You're so right" I mentioned. . . of her word. When she says she won't do any more movies, this is no phony thing. Mary Martin . . ."

"Ah, yes, Mary," I drooled again. . . probably can't be uncoupled from TV and from Brazil to do 'South Pacific' in the movies which I'll likely do. My God, she looks 10 years younger than she did 10 years ago! But Gena has as big a chance as anyone. "The public has one year to see Gena on stage and then never again!" Josh drank the last of his coffee. "Hollywood'll take Gena and will never let her come back. Gena . . ."

"Gena who?" I said.

"Rowlands" he frowned. "The girls I've been talking about all this time. But gosh, I see I've got to go. Thanks for coming. It was nice being able to talk about Gena this way."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . Faye Emerson took off on another month's trip to Europe . . . With stripper Lili St. Cyr leaving his stable, agent Miles Ingalls is building up "Jezebel, the wickedest woman in Walla Walla," now at the Heat Wave . . . A flock of eateries booked "farewell parties" for Jayne Mansfield but she announced the "only official one" was at the Fireplace . . . Lillian Roth's hoping to see "I'll Cry Tomorrow" on the B way stage—and Susan Hayward says she's interested.

EARL'S PEARLS . . . Don't smoke in bed. The ashes you leave may be your own—Jewell (Kans.) Republican.

WISH I'D SAID THAT Warner Bros. is about to release "Grant," and an exec said, "I hope the picture does better than the team did."

TODAY'S WORST PUN Roger Price tells of the reformed gangster who studied spiritualism. He went from bad to medium.

BILL RASHALL

Unedited

Have seldom encountered a woman who is so peculiarly equipped to assist her husband in a profession as lovely Neicy Adams, wife of Cedric Adams, columnist, radio commentator and television personality who holds forth in the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

It was my pleasure to sit with her for more than a half hour, part of which time was spent with a microphone between us with me as the object of an interview—a new experience for me. I was as nervous as a hootie owl but Neicy handled the situation with éclat and perfection.

Recently I watched her, Cedric and family interviewed by Ed Morrow over television on his famous program "Person to Person." I learned that the great Cedric Adams who is read, heard and seen by a million people no less, was just as nervous as I was and there were no cameras trained on this puss of mine either.

HENCEFORTH, WHEN I interview somebody about town the first thing I will consider is the inward feeling of the person whose words, he knows, will be published.

I learned too, and so did Peg who was present, that the life of a newspaperman's wife is not a bed of roses. When Neicy asked Peg about my hours she merely laughed and in that laugh was a world of meaning. But I also learned that Neicy for many years underwent the same experience. Hours mean nothing to a newspaperman on the hunt for that story, which he and no one else can understand, which must see the light of day.

And by the way, for those of you who saw Neicy on TV she is a lovely woman and far more beautiful and personable than the picture she presented on the TV screen. I am thankful for one thing and that is that Peg, the wife of a newspaperman, is not the only wife, she learned, who undergoes the torture of being married to a man in the poorest estate, namely the Fourth Estate, insofar as working hours are concerned at least.

NEICY WILL MEET her husband next week in Los Angeles, but in the meantime she is going to journey down to Camp Pendleton for a visit with her son, David, who is a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. The very next time we are in Minneapolis, Neicy, that invitation goes for the four of us to see just what makes the Twin Cities tick and who could be a better guide than Cedric and Neicy?

Back to the local scene and the matter of equalizing the number of voters in our seven districts. There are many who cannot understand the meandering method presently pursued by City Council in accomplishing an equitable form of representation in our city government. Beneath the current that flows both pro and con regarding this issue, of such vital importance to a democratic form of government, there is a bit of maneuvering which everybody will not like. To be watched carefully is the manner finally adopted by which the various districts will be divided or rearranged. Some fencing has or is taking place which would remove some constituents from one district to the disadvantage of two or three councilmen.

Anyway, the main objective of this little piece is to get some fire under the project because there'll be plenty of talking once a plan is adopted.

RIGHT SOON NOW the Desert Farmers Market will be open again, I understand. And while on that subject learned that Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kornblatt who manufacture those delicious breads and pastries in their bakery there have returned from a long vacation. Their trip, an extensive one, found the couple in old Mexico and many places in Southern California. This year Kornblatt's Bakery will feature a new addition, the preparation of cakes with holes in them generally called donuts and chicken pies prepared by none other than Rose Kornblatt, who really knows how a chicken pie or a donut should taste.

Pappy Landfield is or about to engage in a big job of alteration of his delicatessen concession at the Farmers Market. That and his catering business should keep this gentleman mighty busy, plus his other business—catering to the Marines at Twentynine Palms this Winter season.

Personally, like this Trixie Jarrette, who, I positively believe, loves to teach children the art of dancing. And there's another gal in town whom I admire, one Wanda Kennedy, who actually gets a thrill out of doing a good job and she is doing an excellent one—selling classified advertising for The Desert Sun.

YOU'VE BEEN READING, no doubt, the Red Kenyon screwy ad advertising his ability to build swimming pools. And as a result there are quite a number of Red Kenyon swimming pools in and around Palm Springs. But last night I learned who really builds them. None other than Len Flores who works for Red. So at last, Villagers, the secret is out. It may or may not spell the demise of one Red Kenyon and his ability to dig a hole in the ground, move a swimming pool or sell one that is secondhand. He has done all of these things you know.

He even sent Flores all the way to Vancouver to construct a swimming pool, and then becoming worried about a good workman's ability he grabs himself an armload of airplanes and flies up there to see if Flores knows what he is doing or has done. That's a redhead for you

HOLLYWOOD — One Kay Thompson is a teacher who's "going straight." She's a former vocal coach who is making her acting debut in "Funny Face" in which she sings.

The author of the best-selling book, "Eloise," also dances in the Paramount film starring Fred Astaire and Audrey Hepburn. Miss Thompson's former students include Judy Garland, June Allyson, Lena Horne and Gloria DeHaven. Now she has a chance to try out her own ideas.

"ACTING IS HARD work, I found," she said. "I went into night club work 10 years ago after I quit as vocal coach at MGM. The night club work led to TV work, and here I am, back with a studio."

"It's much tougher than being a vocal coach. I used to get to the studio around 11 in the mornings, eat lunch, teach a few hours at a leisurely pace and then head for home. But now I have to be there at dawn, and they sure make me work."

Miss Thompson's return to the motion picture business although in a different capacity, was brought about by her financial analysis of the night club business.

"THE SALOON BUSINESS" is going to rot," she said. "Costs are too high and business too low. Television did it. So I thought I'd better find greener pastures."

Miss Thompson said a story has been making the rounds that she probably would still be a vocal coach if she hadn't had the courage to quit her job a decade ago. "That's not entirely true," she said. "I had a hunch I was going to be fired. So I quit first. It doesn't take much guts to quit if your going to be fired anyhow!"

"ZEBRA PASSING A BARBER POLE"

Last June when he heard that Ava Gardner's hairdresser had spotted a rare Plaid Zebra on the Kona-kota Plain in North Africa, my colleague, Dr. Schweine, decided to organize an ALL-MALE Safari and go there and try to capture the creature. He figured a real Plaid Zebra would bring him quite a tidy sum from some Zoo or Circus, and even if he couldn't sell it, he knew he could always make it up into several snappy Sports Jackets. I'm sorry to say the Safari never got underway, because at the last minute Dr. Schweine came down with a severe attack of Cloutophobia (a morbid fear of Mrs. Schweine's left hook).

Temperature Tips on Eggs

It is no secret that eggs must be kept cold to retain their fresh qualities, but for success in cooking, homemakers are often in doubt as to when the chill should be taken off the egg in advance.

Here are some temperature tips cited by specialists of the West Virginia University Agricultural Extension Service.

1. A high-quality raw egg separates into white and yolk most easily when it's 50 to 60 degrees F. An egg just out of the refrigerator is so cold that its white clings to both shell and yolk, making separation difficult. On the other hand, when an egg warms up to 75 degrees F. or more, the yolk tends to flatten.
2. For cake-making, eggs should be at room temperature to combine well.
3. Egg whites whip more quickly and to a greater volume when the chill is off. The best whipping temperature ranges from 64 to 77 degrees.
4. For cooking in the shell, take the chill off the egg before it goes into hot water to avoid cracking.
5. Hard-cooked eggs seem to separate most easily from shells when cold. As soon as they are cooked, cool rapidly, in cold running water.

Returns From Two Months' Vacation Trip

Gina Gambogi is home again after a wonderful two-month vacation trip, two weeks of which was spent with her friends Louise Blanchard and Marjorie Rice on their Santa Cruz Ranch. Gina reports her friends named their beautiful five-gaited horse "Miss Gina" after her.

Miss Gambogi was also in San Francisco where she was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Jackson. En route home she spent a week at the Sherman Oaks home of Mr. and Mrs. Egon Arnold recently returned from three months' in Europe.

Miss Gambogi is associated with Bullocks.

Home Again

Mr. and Mrs. John Cummings and daughter Pat, of Calle Palo Fierro, have returned from a motor trip to Canada, the New England states, and down the east coast to Miami. They returned home via the southern route, visiting relatives and friends and meeting a few Villagers en route.

Bobby Tippet and daughter Tamara, who have been vacationing in Del Mar, are home again. Tamara is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Thompson, 110 Via Miraleste, entered the third grade at Katherine Finchy school yesterday.

Dinner Party Is Surprise For Newlyweds

A wedding supper given Saturday evening by the Los Compadres at their club house was a complete surprise to those popular newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Slim Kahl. She is the former Dottie Higgins. Symbolizing the double ring ceremony, two beautifully decorated cakes in the form of wedding bands, were served along with a steak dinner.

A wedding gift of a Simmons Long chair was presented the couple by the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. William Aikin, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Ballagh, Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Rauber.

Also the Elmo Furnells, Joe Hendersons, Earl Houghs, Jim my Coopers, Fred Rosses, Cliff Campbell, Ely Windhursts, Bill Allreds, Frank Purcivals and Maorita Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Anderson, managers of Caliente Cottages, have taken a two-week vacation trip, visiting the Grand Canyon and other places of interest. They will spend a few days at Idyllwild before returning.

Mrs. Harold Miller and son Alan, 1428 San Lorenzo Road, flew in from Portland Sunday night in time for Alan to enter Palm Springs High as a senior. Mr. Miller will join them in three weeks.

Guests Enjoy Late Summer

Palm Springs Biltmore will soon be making plans for the winter season, but guests who are enjoying the late summer are Mr. and Mrs. Zain, of Forest Hills, New York; Ruth and John McManus of Montgomery, Alabama (he is president of American Manufacture Co.); Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Feldman and daughter Judie of Chicago; Frank P. Davey of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Anderson of Phoenix; Mr. and Mrs. R. Fittinger of Walnut Creek, California; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Gones of Tulare; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Balsley of Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Tolleson and Mr. and Mrs. L. Garcia of San Francisco, and Captain D. J. Torres of Palmdale.

While the U-I company was shooting here the Garden Room was a bevy of stars. Jeff Chandler, his charming wife and daughters, Jamie and Dana . . . Jack Carson, Jack Arnold and Billy Snyder of Palm Springs. Arnold is directing "The Tattered Dress" for Universal International, which was photographed, in part, in Palm Springs. Jeff Chandler and Jack Carson are appearing in this all star picture with Jean Crainne, Gail Russell and Elaine Stewart. Don and Isabelle Cameron of Rancho Mirage were hosts to Mrs. E. B. Noonan of Montreal, Canada, Anita Brennan of Chicago and

Mr. and Mrs. Max Grone and family are back at their home after spending most of the summer at Catalina.

Poolside Barbecue

It was a family affair ending summer vacation, when Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Greva and their children Donna, George and Ray, enjoyed a poolside barbecue Sunday night at their home at 1674 Via Salida.

Donna is here on a visit from Las Vegas; George is returning to State College in Los Angeles, where he is studying psychiatry; and Ray returned to Palm Springs High this week.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR

is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three Ls, X for the two Os, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C K M Z K I J C Y T C Y Y M P D C S X C

D H Q D M N D X C S I V C K K — G I N L G .

Yesterday's Cryptogram: THINGS TOO WONDERFUL FOR ME, WHICH I KNEW NOT—JOB.

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Staff Writer
Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

NEW YORK (U-P)—Fraily's follies and the first edition of the week-end football "winners"—along with a few observations on the National League pennant race.

Maryland over Syracuse — Jim Tatum, departing for North Carolina, left the Maryland grid larder well-stocked. Well enough, anyhow, to nose out what figures to be a real rough Syracuse eleven.

Pitt over West Virginia—Cincinnati-New York would be the most interesting World Series.

Lehigh over Gettysburg-Brooklyn vs. New York is old hat. Bucknell over Albright — The Braves are on the draw side.

Lafayette over Muhlenberg—The Redleg bombers are up to their muscles in color.

ALSO — CONNECTICUT over Springfield, Rutgers over Ohio Wesleyan, Rhode Island over North Eastern.

TCU over Kansas—It's an anti-climatic series for the NL.

Marquette over Detroit — Brooklyn's bandage brigade will shoot its way in the stretch.

Kansas State over Oklahoma Aggies—Milwaukee can't match the Yanks anywhere.

Oregon State over Missouri—Redleg power would make it a donnybrook.

Also — Cincinnati over Dayton, Miami, Ohio, over George Washington and San Jose State over Drake.

STANFORD OVER Washington State—The Yanks would clobber Brooklyn or Milwaukee.

Baylor over California — Cincinnati would give 'em a battle.

Washington over Idaho — The Redlegs are pitch poor.

UCLA over Utah — But they'd have plenty for a short series.

Also — Oregon over Colorado, Denver over Utah State, COP over Colorado Aggies and Brigham Young over Fresno State.

Duke over South Carolina—Kinda nice if Brooklyn wins.

Mississippi State over Florida—"One for the road" for the nine old men.

Vanderbilt over Georgia — There's a new Flatbush theme song.

GEORGIA TECH OVER Kentucky—"Breaking up that old gang of mine."

Also—North Carolina over North Carolina State, Mississippi over North Texas State, Tulane over VPI, Wake Forest over W&M, Clemson over Presbyterian, Richmond over Randolph-Macon, Virginia over VMI.

Notre Dame over SMU—October joy-ride for Mantle and Company.

USC over Texas—The Yanks'll be fit and rested.

RICE OVER ALABAMA — They have pitching and power.

Arkansas over Hardin-Simmons — And, as the man says, they've got Casey Stengel.

Aim in Life Good

AN EXPERT shot at five years of age, Bettie Jo Warnisher of Lewistown, Mont., intrigues the experts with her marksmanship. Bettie holds a target she recently fired at with a Winchester .22 (with a sawed-off stock and a four-power telescope sight) and the bulls-eye results can be seen. Bettie fired 10 shots from 25 yards away and hit the center on all of them. Her dad owns a rifle range. (International)

Yankees in, NL Pennant Battle Roars

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Staff Writer
The proud old Yankees, pennant winners again for the 22nd time in 36 years, completed one more champagne campaign today, but the tummy bubbles in that mad National League race were caused by just plain anxiety.

The cup of victory was doubly bubbly for the Yankees in their celebration. For it was Mickey Mantle who clinched it all with his 50th homer in the 11th inning that provided a 3-2 victory over the White Sox.

That made him the only man besides Babe Ruth, who ever reached that magic figure in a Yankee uniform. Moreover, the Yankees beat the only club with a mathematical chance to tie them.

PENNANT RACE AT A GLANCE
Brooklyn 87 57 .494
Milwaukee 88 58 .468
Cincinnati 85 62 .575 4 1/2

Games remaining — Brooklyn 10—At home 6 St. Louis, Sept. 19; Philadelphia, Sept. 25, 26; Pittsburgh, Sept. 28, 29, 30; Away 4 Pittsburgh, Sept. 21, 22, 23, 24; At home 3 Chicago, Sept. 21, 22, 23; Away 1 Pittsburgh, Sept. 19; Cincinnati, Sept. 25, 26; St. Louis, Sept. 28, 29, 30.

Cincinnati 9 — At home 8 St. Louis, Sept. 21, 22, 23, 24; Milwaukee, Sept. 25, 26; Philadelphia, Sept. 19, 20; Chicago, Sept. 29, 30.

and they beat them on their home ground, and with their best pitcher, Billy Pierce on the mound.

THERE WAS MEASURED happiness for the Milwaukee Braves. They rose to within one percentage point of first place Brooklyn, with a 6-4 victory at Pittsburgh, produced on the margin of Johnny Logan's two-run single in the eighth, and saved by Bill Bruton's over-the-head catch of a ninth inning center field line drive with two Pirates on base.

But in Brooklyn there were only dregs of despair. Ken Boyer hit a two-run homer in the ninth to give St. Louis a 6-5 triumph in a game where the Dodgers had climbed courageously from behind to lead briefly in the seventh on a two-run homer by Gil Hodges. Boyer's blast came with two out.

BROOKLYN STILL has a game advantage in the lost column and has two more games to play than Milwaukee, which gives the Dodgers a bigger winning potential. But now they were virtually tied again, whereas they had been a game in front.

Cincinnati faced virtual elimination. The Redlegs dropped two at Philadelphia where Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts gained 4-3 and 7-4 pitching triumphs.

HERB SCORE STRUCK out 14 to win his 18th game, a four-hitter, and Mike Garcia followed with a three-hitter to give Cleveland 1-0 and 6-0 triumphs over Washington, while Lou Skizas hit a ninth inning homer to defeat the Red Sox, 6-5, at Kansas City. Ray Boone's grand slam homer gave Detroit a 6-2 margin over Baltimore.

The Giants, paced by Jackie Brandt who drove in five runs with four hits, including a homer, defeated Chicago, 8-2, after the Cubs took the first game, 4-2, on a four-hitter by Bob Rush.

Oddmakers Favor Yankees in Series

NEW YORK (U-P)—The magic name of the Yankees installed them as automatic favorites to win the World Series with the bookmakers, no matter who their National League opponents may be.

In spite of the fact the Yankees lost the series last year to the Dodgers and that the National League not only has two straight triumphs in the World Series, but also in the All-Star game, the New Yorkers are the choice.

If the Dodgers are their opponents, the Yankees will be favored at 6-7. Against Milwaukee the price now is 7-8 and against Cincinnati 7-1/2-8-1/2.

Lightburn, Lane To Battle on TV

MIAMI, Fla. (U-P)—Ludwig Lightburn of British Honduras and Kenny Lane, two of the better lightweights in boxing, swat it out tonight at Miami's new Biscayne Arena in a 10-round televised bout.

The classy Lightburn was a surprising 8-5 favorite over Lane, who is ranked sixth among the lightweights. Lightburn, who recently scrapped Orlando Zulueta in a rematch, is currently ranked ninth.

NBC Gets Series

NEW YORK (U-P)—The 1956 World Series will be televised coast-to-coast by the National Broadcasting Company beginning daily at 12:45 p.m. local time. The series is scheduled to start in the park of the National League pennant winner on Oct. 3 bearing a tie for first place.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

Oregon's Miracle Coach Plans Better Team in '56

Corvallis, Ore. (U-P)—Coach Tommy Prothro, miracle-coach of the Oregon State Beavers, thinks he will field a better team than last year's runner-up club in the Pacific Coast Conference, but it may not win as many games.

"The schedule is tough," Prothro says. "We play three of our first four games on the road and all involve lengthy trips. And I think our success or failure also will depend a lot on how the sophomores develop as understudies to the regulars."

Thirteen lettermen are gone from last year's surprise package which vaulted out of the basement into a runner-up spot behind UCLA after Prothro checked in from that school brining the single-wing attack.

But a pretty solid corps of veterans also is coming back headed by tackle John Witte, who was named to the United Press All-Coast team last year; wingback Sam Wesley who led the nation in interceptions, and tailback Joe Francis.

Witte will help make the Beavers strong at the tackles where he is expected to pair up with Ted Bates, a good sophomore. Other second year men who are expected to help Riggert at the guard spots are Sonny Sanchez and Jim Brackins.

BUT THE CENTER may be manned by 165-pound Dick Corrick, Prothro originally was counting on the seasoned Bob Hadraha but he was drafted into the Army this summer.

Behind Corrick, Prothro may go with sophomore Buzz Randle.

The team could be rough defensively, what with Wesley picking off enemy passes aided by crumpling line play under Witte's direction.

The Beavers are sticking to their balanced line, single wing which is used by only three other universities — UCLA, Tennessee and Wyoming. Two intersectional foes and the other eight teams in the conference will find out whether Prothro can keep his magic touch with it.

Two SC Players See Early Action

LOS ANGELES (U-P)—Two husky University of Southern California football players became involved in a traffic row Tuesday night and missed an annual Trojan Club banquet.

All-American halfback Jon Arnett, 21, and end Charles Leimbach, 21, were caught in a traffic jam while on their way to the banquet.

Gerrit L. Hull, a surveyor, told police Leimbach deliberately stopped in front of him. The 188-pound lineman and Hull, 29, reportedly began scuffling.

Arnett and red-haired Mrs. Barbara Hull, 26, tried to separate them. Then two police officers showed up and called time out.

The athletes made out battery reports at University Station but declined to sign complaints for what was described as "an act of mutual combat."

Cancer Benefit

GALVESTON, Tex. (U-P)—All proceeds from a nationally-televised welterweight fight Oct. 3, will go to the Babe Zaharias cancer fund, as doctors reported to the famed woman athlete was "holding her own" in a three-year struggle with the disease.

MORRISON ON GOLF

VALUABLE LESSON IN BURKE'S PGA WIN

By ALEX J. MORRISON
Author of "A New Way to Better Golf," Teacher of Champions

BETTER GOLF is relatively simple and easy. In the proper execution of the swing or shot the player is not too conscious of any one of the three phases involved. This means that the mental, physical and mechanical processes blend into one smooth-flowing motion.

While this ideal blending of the three phases can be had by sheer accident on unpredictable occasions it generally is had only from considerable application by the player to mastering the various processes. A vital part of this application on the mental side is distinguishing attention from intention. Briefly, this can be called attaining a MUST attitude toward the job to be done.

ABOUT HIS performances in winning the 1956 PGA Jack Burke explained, "There was some talk that I backed into winning the 1956 Masters so I had to prove myself." In the Burke family the MUST issue dates back to Jack's father. In 1920 Jack senior tied with Harry Vardon, Leo Diegel and Jock Hutchinson for second in the U.S. Open. This was as close as he ever came to winning a major title though he had won some 30 tournaments. Jack junior was out to do better if possible. While coached mainly by the veteran Jimmy Demaret and showing considerable promise, his attitude around 1950 only amounted to hoping or intending to win.

DURING the last L. A. Open held at Riviera I helped him out of a putting slump. On the final hole he had two putts from less than 15 feet to win. He three putted and lost the playoff. In 1952 he won four straight tournaments during the spring but failed in his tries for the big titles.

In 1955 he was in business with Jimmy Demaret building houses in Houston. This meant a place to operate if and when he had to retire from tournament competition. The year 1956 brought a peak in the need to win a major title if possible. Every tournament pro knew that Jack, Jr., should win at least one of the big events; golf fans everywhere wondered why he hadn't come through. The games he played at Augusta and Canton, though good enough, were not his very best. To win from veteran Ed Furgol after being five down in the semifinals showed a strong MUST attitude. He maintained it to come from behind in the finals to beat Ted Kroll.

At times it's difficult to tell whether you only intend to do the job or you are properly attending to it, but that's a big part of golf's challenge.

Taylor, Venturi Head Favorites For State Title

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (U-P)—Match play in the 45th annual California State Amateur Golf Tournament got under way today with the greatest field in history battling three favorites: Defending champion Bud Taylor, of Pomona and Cucamonga, and co-medalists Ken Venturi and Bob Silvestri, both of Daly City.

After qualifying was completed Tuesday, they looked like the toughest men among the 64 in the championship competition.

Taylor, who will be gunning for an unprecedented third consecutive crown, meets Frank Zack, Stanford, for his opening tilt. The champion, who didn't have to qualify, posted a 147 for the two days of play in Cypress Point and Pebble Beach. Zack had a 152.

Venturi, runner-up for the Masters Championship and low amateur in the National Open, will tangle with young Jerry Steel-smith, Glendale, in the first round; and Silvestri, who literally has "played up a storm" Tuesday, will battle Don Dushane, Sacramento.

Upsets Mark Tennis Tourney

LOS ANGELES (U-P)—Billy Talbert, 38-year-old captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, entered the third round of the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament today boasting an upset victory over Australia's Neale Fraser.

Talbert rallied Tuesday to defeat Fraser, third seeded among the foreign entries, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3. The nonplaying Davis Cup captain easily was downed by Fraser in the first set but he quickly took the lead in the final two.

It was a day of major to minor upsets. Mike Franks, 19-year-old UCLA star, turned back seeded Ulf Schmidt of Sweden, sixth seeded foreigner, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Another UCLA student, Mike Green, defeated Luis Ayala of Chile, 8-6, 6-3.

Top-seed foreigner Lew Head of Australian Davis Cup fame, however, was not among the upset victims. He defeated Bob Perry, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4. Second-seeded Ken Rosewall, also from Australia, kept in the winning bracket by defeating Bill Quillian Seattle, 6-1, 6-2.

Tamarisk Club Road Closing Try Has Opposition

An attempt by the Tamarisk Country Club to have a county road running through the club's golf course abandoned, met with considerable opposition Monday and on recommendation by County Planning Director Tyler Sues, the hearing on the abandonment to Oct. 22 at 10 a.m.

Sues said he will confer with club officials and the county road commissioner and will have a specific recommendation by Oct. 22.

Herbert C. Legg, Los Angeles county supervisors, entered one of the protests Monday, as owner of a subdivision which would be served in part by the road. William Moore, Claude S. Cobb and Fred Mott, all property owners adjacent to and close to the road, voiced protests Monday.

Enos Reid, attorney for Tamarisk Country Club, was present but did not offer any opposition to continuation of the hearing. Reid is connected with the Riverside firm of Best, Best and Krieger.

Following Monday's board action, two telegrams were received, both protesting closing of the road, one from Pat Duggan of Paramount Studios, the other from Lew Kerner of Goldwyn Studios.

Why settle for less than Blue Chip performance?

It doesn't take a new GMC owner long to spot the difference—especially if he's just switched from another make truck. Take the way every Blue Chip GMC is "engineered". An ultra-modern power plant gives him flashing response, sparkling road-pace—and record fuel economy.

Hydra-Matic* is another eye-opener. Right away he appreciates its time and effort saving in traffic. And later on, he cashes in on the big maintenance savings.

And every trip he can carry a bigger load. For GMC chassis are rugged—GMC axles are extra-capacity.

So he hauls more—and hauls it comfortably. GMC cabs are man-size and de-cushioned. Recirculating ball-bearing steering makes handling free and easy. Close-quarters parking's a cinch with Safety Power Steering.*

And at every stop, a Blue Chip GMC attracts admiring attention. With that distinctive boulevard styling, it's a smart advertisement-on-wheels for any business.

One for your kind of truck-work? Our truck specialists will help you select just the Blue Chip model that will do your job most profitably. And our truck servicing experts always stand ready to help you keep it a Blue Chip top-profit-maker. Drop in and get acquainted!

Suez Canal Dispute Doooms Chances Of Britain Giving Cyprus Self-Rule

By CHARLES M. McCann United Press Staff Correspondent

The Suez Canal dispute has ended any chance that Great Britain might grant self-rule to Cyprus within the foreseeable future.

More than ever, the eastern Mediterranean island has become for Britain an indispensable military base.

For several months, there was hope in London that an agreement might be reached that would end the violence by Greek Cypriots.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the canal ended that hope.

HENCE THE PROSPECT is that violence will continue and that Field Marshal Sir John Harding, governor and commander-in-chief, will concentrate on stamping it out. British relations with Greece, which wants Cyprus, will remain correspondingly bad.

Britain stiffened its terms for a Cyprus solution last week.

ALAN LENNOX-BOYD, colonial secretary, said in the House of Commons that Nasser's action had strengthened the government's determination to keep full sovereignty over the island. He said: "All the government thinking has led to the inescapable conclusion that recent events in the Middle East have underlined what we have always said—that Cyprus is vital for the protection of our strategic interests and the strategic interests of the free world."

Lennox-Boyd specified that Britain must maintain full control of internal security in Cyprus, as well as control of foreign affairs and defense.

IN MID-JULY, Prime Minister Anthony Eden gave Lord Radcliffe, a high-ranking judge, the task of drawing up a "new, liberal" constitution for Cyprus. Under this constitution, Cypriots would have been given internal self-government. Radcliffe is still drafting his report. But the Suez dispute has made the question of self-government one for the far future. "EOKA," the Greek Cypriot organization which is conducting the campaign of violence in Cyprus, demanding that the island be given to Greece, called a truce on August 16. It suggested new negotiations.

HARDING'S REPLY was to offer the EOKA extremists a chance to lay down their arms. He said his offer would remain open for three weeks. Under it, members of the EOKA organization who surrendered would be permitted to go to Greece and become Greek citizens.

EOKA rejected this offer and called off its truce. Violence was resumed.

Harding's amnesty offer expired on Sept. 12. He said that he would intensify a drive to stamp out violence. There would be no new attempt at a political solution of the Cyprus issue until the drive succeeded, he said.

EVEN BEFORE THE Harding offer expired, the situation was complicated by a new development. Britain charged it had evidence that Greek Orthodox Church Archbishop Makarios was the real leader of the EOKA organization. Makarios had led the campaign for the union of Cyprus with Greece. He is in exile on an Indian Ocean island.

As of now, the Cyprus situation is farther than ever from a solution.

Roadside Rest Funds Available

An allocation of $450,000 has been made by the State Division of Beaches and Parks for roadside rests, county supervisors were advised this week, and it is now a question of acquiring sites and installing the roadside resting areas which are to be located along state highways.

The board of supervisors of each county is to be consulted for advice and recommendation as to sites. It was suggested that the sites might be incorporated with historical markers, view spots, or other points of interest.

Operation and maintenance of the resting areas is to be a function of districts of the Division of Beaches and Parks. Each such area will contain tables, refuse containers, water, and a comfort station.

The matter was referred by the supervisors to the Riverside County Board of Trade and the county planning commission.

County Weights and Measures Law to be Prepared

A new ordinance to replace the present ordinance regulating the installation and maintenance of apparatus for the dispensing of gasoline to purchasers at retail is under consideration by the board of supervisors and county counsel, but action was deferred Monday for another week.

County Counsel Ray T. Sullivan, Jr., said the ordinance would be primarily a set of safety regulations involving the storage and dispensing of flammable liquids and the regulation of equipment in service stations and other places by means of which these liquids are handled. Sullivan agreed with Francis W. Merrill, sealer of weights and measures, that the present ordinance is antiquated and the law should be changed. Sullivan said that if the board would so instruct him he would put the ordinance draft he has been studying into final form, submit it to someone in the engineering field involved for a review of technical aspects, and confer with county fire protection authorities and the chief building inspector regarding enforcement aspects and other factors which might concern them. He was ordered to proceed as he suggested.

County Receives $130,000 for Roads

Of the $6,245,055.61 highway users tax monies apportioned to counties, Riverside county is to get $130,215.84, the supervisors were advised Monday by State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood. Out of the $130,215.84, an amount of $39,671.55 is to be used exclusively for construction expenditures on the county primary road system. The balance can be expended for other county highway purposes.

I'm really excited about the amazing, new, two-day "Blitz" diet featured in the current issue of Coronet Magazine. It's so simple, so easy to follow and a wonderful way to drop two to five pounds in a real hurry. Best of all, I get to eat lots and lots of Carnation Cottage Cheese—one of my favorite dairy foods.

When you're eating cottage cheese at every meal (as you do on this diet), flavor is mighty important. And Carnation Cottage Cheese has flavor so fine, so fresh, you'll enjoy it straight from the carton. Only Carnation could make it so good!

Of course, the "Blitz" diet lasts only two days, but Carnation Cottage Cheese is a year-round favorite at our house. We enjoy its tangy delicate goodness almost every day. For example, here are some of our favorite low-calorie, summer and winter salads:

WINTER SALADS Individual Tomato Aspic rings filled with Carnation Cottage Cheese and then garnished with chopped pimiento, stuffed olives or paprika.

...or, pear halves filled with Carnation Cottage Cheese topped with chopped dates.

SUMMER SALADS Fresh tomatoes stuffed with Carnation Cottage Cheese, chopped celery and radishes.

...or, Carnation Cottage Cheese surrounded by an assortment of fresh, choice summer fruits.

I call Carnation Cottage Cheese my "wonder food." No other ready-to-eat dish gives you so much balanced nourishment, so much protein, for so few calories.

Hold that line ...waistline, that is. Even a husband has to watch it now and then. Mine loves the new "Blitz" diet because it's so short, so very simple, so wonderfully effective. What's more? he feels so well-fed, he doesn't miss fattening desserts.

Dieting or not...you'll love the fine, full flavor of Carnation Cottage Cheese. Pick up a carton or two next time you're shopping in your favorite market, or ask your Carnation milkman to leave some next delivery.
